

Different faces of Rost Optik

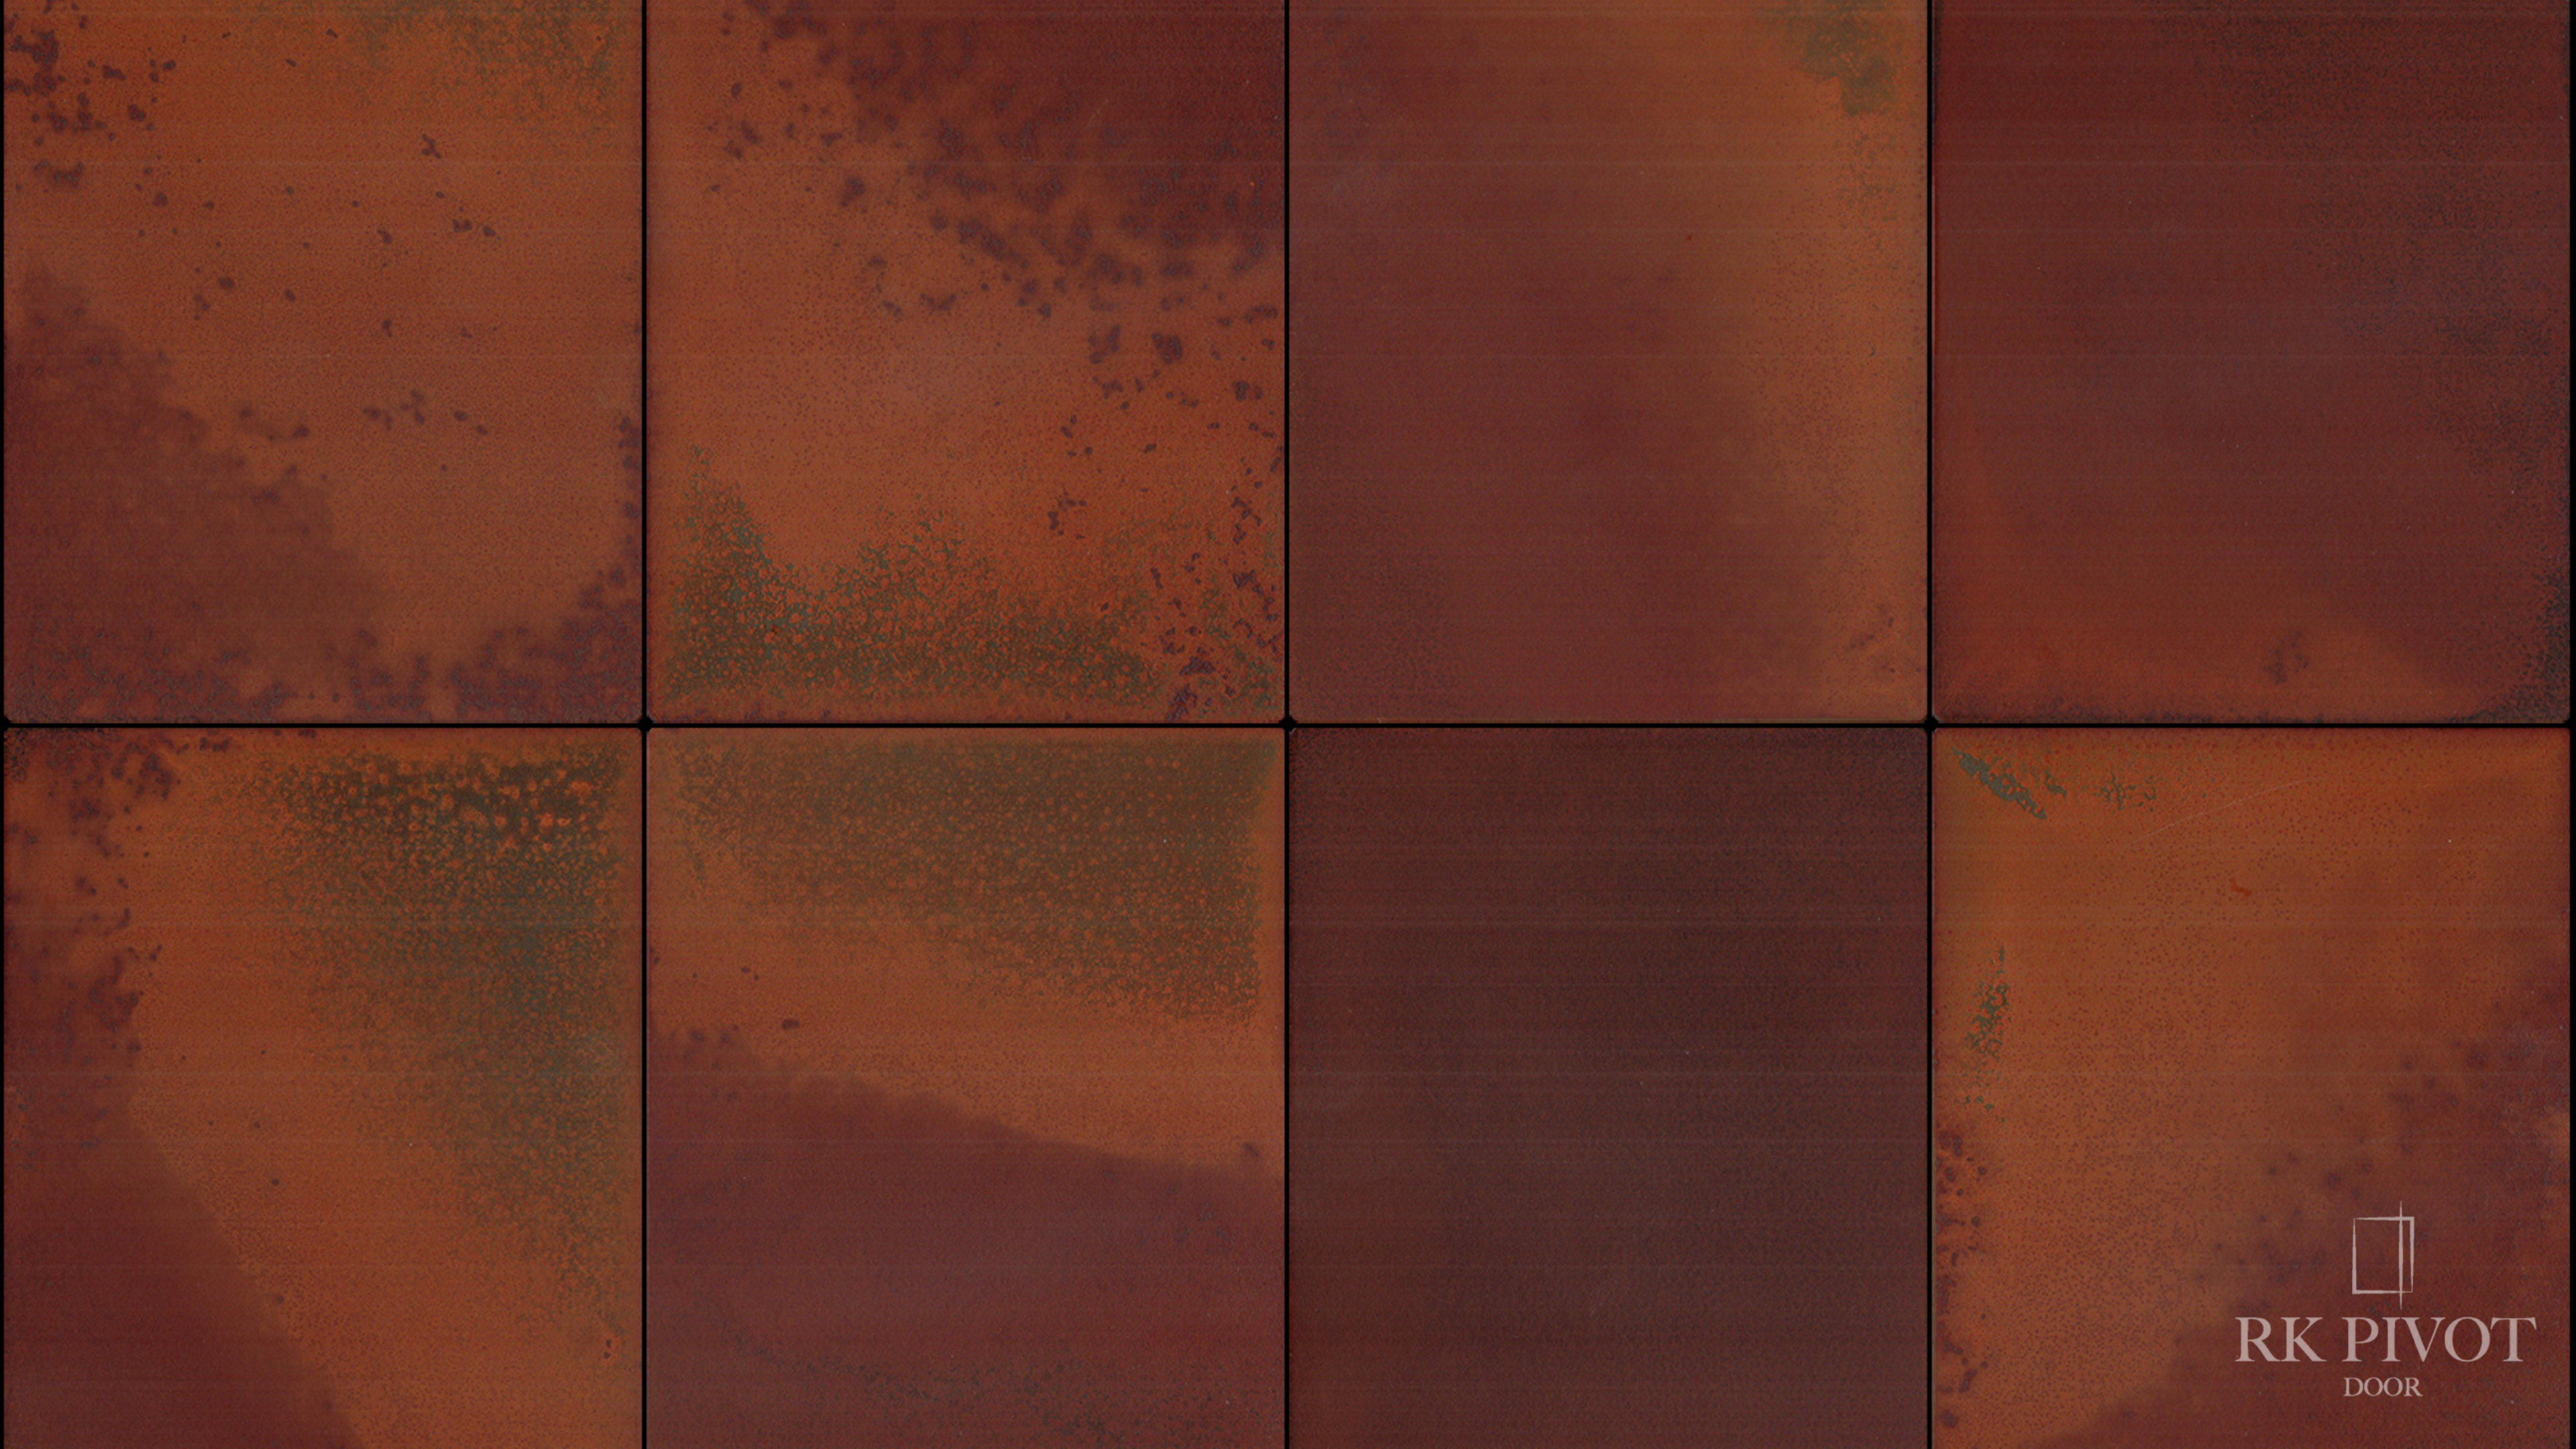

Rost Optik is a coating obtained as a result of chemical processes that artificially cause the effect of a corroded surface. For this reason, it is a unique treatment. Each plate is different, differently colored and covered with a different rust motif.

The template that you have received is just a fragment of the entire board, which, due to the variety of patina coverage, becomes a kind of work of art.

These differences are natural and impossible to eliminate. See examples of patinated surface. RK Exclusive Doors is not responsible for color differences between the templates.
